

2026 EoE Network of Virginia

Saturday, March 14, 2026

Richmond Marriott at Short Pump, Richmond, VA

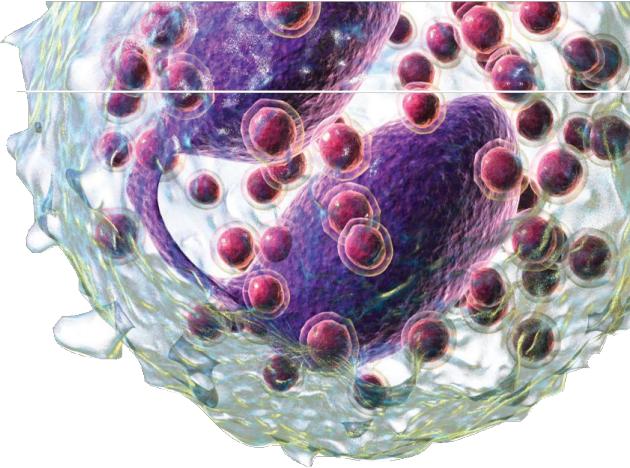

UVA Health

Provided by the University of Virginia School of Medicine and School of Nursing

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Eosinophilic esophagitis (EoE) was previously considered to be a rare disease that was primarily treated in multidisciplinary clinics at academic centers, but over the last few decades, it has been increasingly diagnosed and managed by community providers. Moreover, there are now effective FDA-approved therapies for this disease, which further facilitates the management of EoE at the community level. This event will offer an update on recent advances in the diagnosis and management of EoE, including a discussion of the updated guidelines (published in January 2025). A core component of this conference is to facilitate the generation of a network of EoE providers across the State of Virginia who can collaborate in caring for patients with EoE.

TARGET AUDIENCE

SPECIALTIES:

Allergy
Gastroenterology

PROFESSIONS:

Dietitian
Nurse
Nurse Practitioner
Physician

DESIRED OUTCOMES

At the conclusion of this activity, learners will be able to:

1. Summarize the updated American College of Gastroenterology guidelines on the diagnosis and management of eosinophilic esophagitis (EoE).
2. Recognize the roles of the gastroenterologist, allergist, and dietitian in the management of EoE patients.
3. Facilitate a collaborative network of EoE providers in the State of Virginia to improve the care of patients.
