Greetings, past and future Movement Disorders Symposium Exhibitors!

You are invited to exhibit at the 12th Virginia Regional Movement Disorders Symposium on Saturday, October 25, 2025, to be held live at the UVA Student Health Building at 550 Brandon Avenue in Charlottesville. We hope you can join us this year – our attendees really appreciate the opportunity to learn about the latest developments.

The program targets an enriched population of neurologists, neurosurgeons, neuropsychologists, and movement disorders team members and we expect about 100 attendees. The ACCME-accredited symposium provides formal didactic review of recent research advances and evidence from clinical trials in movement disorders that are changing the diagnosis and treatment of Parkinson's disease and related disorders of movement and motor control. Case discussions highlight diagnostic features of movement disorders and practical strategies for treatment.
